Problem, Protection and Perspective of Persons with Disability: Law & Policy

March 30th, 2017

About the University:

The Babasaheb Bhimrao Ambedkar University (A Central University) Lucknow, (NAAC Accredited "A" Grade) is one of the premier Central Universities in the country established on 10th January 1996 to promote advanced knowledge offering master courses and research, which is now extended to UG courses also. Presently the University is offering 22 courses in various disciplines and number of courses is in row. Its 250 acres campus located of the Raebareli road about 10 k.m. south of Charbagh Railway Station of Lucknow. The University is a residential University and is committed to develop as a centre for excellence in the field of higher education. The University offers appropriate courses relevant for the development of socially and educationally depressed section of the people, including agricultural technology and rural crafts; to promote the study of the principles for which Babasaheb Bhimrao Ambedkar worked during his lifetime, to pay special attention to the promotion of educational and economic interests and welfare of the people in general and members belonging to the SC/ST in particular.

About Lucknow:

Lucknow, the city situated on the banks of the river Gomti popularly known as the city of the Nawabs and Nawabi culture worldwide. It is also known as the Golden City of the East, Shiraz-i-Hind and the Constantinople of India. Lucknow is a beautiful city and famous for its historical monuments which were built during the ancient times and still retains its old world charm. Lucknow is also famous for its traditional cuisine, fine arts and the most courteous people you will ever find in India. It is the capital city of Uttar Pradesh and stands out as a city that takes pride in the endearing.

Concept Note:

Throughout centuries, the disabled have been oppressed marginalised and stigmatized in almost all societies. They constitute a section of the population, which is most backward, least served and grossly neglected. Person with disability are the poorest of the poor and weakest of the weak, who have been socially, educationally and economically disadvantaged; thus having customarily denied their right to self-assertion, identity and development.

India is not an exception to this there are so many issues and challenges regarding protections of the rights of the persons with disabilities. WHO report states that ten per cent of the entire world's population live with disability (650 million) and that there are more people living with disability in India than in any other country. India is party to the United Nations Convention on the Rights of Persons with Disabilities (CRPD). It is mandated for all countries that the substantive rights and principles of the Convention should reflect on the relevant laws of the land. The Constitution of India within its general welfare perspective made provisions for the persons with disabilities under Part III of the Constitution. The 1970s marked a new approach to disability. The concept of human rights for disabled persons began to become more accepted internationally. The Declaration on the Rights of Disabled Persons, adopted by the General Assembly on 9 December 1975, encouraged national and international protection of the rights of the disabled. Recognition was given to the fact that disabled persons were entitled to the same political and civil rights as others, including measures necessary to enable them to become self-sufficient. This was the era when there was a shift from welfare based approach to the rights based approach for the PWD. For getting in tuned with this right based approach the parliament enacted The Rights of Persons With Disabilities Act, 2016 (Repealed 1995 Act), The Rehabilitation Council of India Act 1992 and The National Trust Act 1999 along with various policies for the upliftment of the PWD. But unfortunately all these acts and policies are more inclined towards the medical model than the social and legal model for the PWD that emphasized that disability is not merely a medical issue rather; it's a social issue, it's a human rights issue The human rights based approach or construct of disability upholds the view that disability is a condition which results from interactions of impairments with various barriers in society. Such interactions prevent one's participation in society on an equal basis with others. Society needs an inclusive rather than a perspective and restrictive understanding of disability. The barriers which a person with a disability encounters are broadly-attitudinal, environmental, institutional and informational not physical. Only this understanding to disability would create an environment where people with disabilities will be accepted as equal citizens with rights, will equally capable of claiming these rights and making autonomous decisions based on their free and informed consent and will act as an active members of society.

Besides the adoption of a number legal instruments India has also developed various policies and programmes related to persons with disability to achieve equity across the nation but still the effective impact of it is yet to be seen. Hence this Seminar aims to review the existing understanding, laws and Policies regarding disability in India. This also aims to create awareness amongst academicians, educationist, peoples, civil society members and parliamentarians and also to promote and encourage them to respond proactively to the issues related to the disability sector in India today. We hope that this seminar will effectively inform and assist our representative bodies in working to secure the rights of people living with disabilities at the appropriate policy levels.
